Yeah, just went thru that with a GX340 engine on my pressure washer - the thing acted like a fuel problem. It would start and run OK at idle, but under load it would run maybe 15-20 seconds and die - if I was quick enough, choking it would SOMETIMES keep it from dying.

I was changing oil on a GX340 engine on my snowblower. The manual says it holds 1.1 quarts of oil (which I read as about 35 ounces) Yet, the manual also shows that you fill up the crankcase until it's touching the threads for the dipstick. This is pretty common in the GX line (same in the GX160).

change ? Mounted to the block near the stop switch should be a small silver module, unplug the black wire leading behind the flywheel cover. This will eliminate the low oil shut-down sensor, Then test run the unit. I have seen units that looked like the oil had never been changed, It looked like tar.
